

Abstract

Frequency Control for a Mobile Communications Device

5 A mobile station in a TDMA network can perform automatic frequency using burst in all or any slot in a control channel. This is achieved by identifying the training sequence of an arbitrary set of or all received bursts.